Experience

Mr. Kuhlman has been working professionally in the architectural field since 1992. Prior to joining JNA, Mr. Kuhlman worked for award winning architecture firms in Washington, D.C., and in Chicago where he was an Associate Principal at Nagle Hartray (NHDKMP) and worked for 7 years on award winning senior housing and religious projects. Mr. Kuhlman's desire to specialize in religious architecture originated in his year of studies in Rome while a student at Notre Dame, and his respect for traditional architecture and contextualism are integral parts of his design process. In addition to his work experience, David has also been published in Environment and Art for his article The Altars We Build: An Architect's Perspective, and has served on design juries at the University of Notre Dame and Judson University. Having played tennis for Notre Dame, David continues to play competitive tennis while raising his four children with his wife in Park Ridge.
